To Whom It May Concern,

Having served in our school district since 2002, I have seen countess assemblies over the last two decades, but Caden Vittorini's presentation truly stood out. We were thrilled to welcome the owner of Vitt Factor to our elementary school as part of his tour across eight local area schools. From the second he walked in, Caden brought an infectious, high-energy atmosphere that instantly commanded the room. He didn't just present at our elementary students; he connected with them as an authentic role model, sharing practical life skills, mindset tools, and everyday wisdom while inspiring them to bring their absolute best energy to everything they do.

My favorite moment of the entire assembly was watching Caden interact directly with the students when he opened the floor for comments and connections to what he was sharing. Instead of simply lecturing, he called on various children, listening to their answers with genuine respect and validating their thoughts. That interactive, non-traditional approach completely transformed the dynamic of the room—it was far from a "sit-still-and-stare" presentation. The kids felt seen, heard, and valued, which kept them locked in on his core message while still having a blast and making a little well-deserved noise.

Beyond the entertainment factor, the substance of Caden's message hit right at the heart of what young students face today. He addressed the quiet internal struggles children experience when deciding between right and wrong, directly speaking to the inner voice that guides their daily choices. For students currently navigating behavioral or social challenges, his message provided clear, actionable clarity on how to do the right thing even when it's hard. Caden possesses a rare talent for delivering deep, impactful character education in a way that feels relevant, accessible, and exciting for elementary schoolers. I highly recommend Caden and the Vitt Factor to any school seeking a meaningful, transformational experience for their students.

Sincerely,

Kathy Nigro
